For over twenty five years Phil Borges has lived with and documented indigenous and tribal cultures around the world. Through his exhibits and award-winning books, Phil attempts to create a relationship between the audience and his photographic subjects.

In 2001 Phil founded Bridges to Understanding, a school partnership program that uses the internet, digital stories and face to face exchanges to connect youth worldwide for the purpose of exploring and honoring cultural diversity and building cross-cultural understanding. Borges is the co-founder of Blue Earth Alliance, a 501c3 that sponsors photographic projects focusing on endangered cultures and threatened environments.
